

Canadian Corn Producers

For Immediate Release
Tuesday, June 5, 2007

Guelph, ON. Canadian Corn Producers (CCP) are very disappointed by the Federal Court of Appeal's decision today to dismiss their application for judicial review of the Canadian International Trade Tribunal's May 2006 no-injury finding. CCP is currently considering its options with respect to all prongs of its attack on dumped and subsidized U.S. corn. To this end, CCP will continue to lobby the Canadian Government to request a dispute resolution panel in its WTO consultations regarding trade distorting U.S. farm subsidies.

Canadian Corn Producers (CCP) are a coalition of Canada's main corn producer associations – namely, the Ontario Corn Producers' Association (OCPA), the Fédération des producteurs de cultures commerciales du Québec (FPCCQ), and the Manitoba Corn Growers' Association (MCGA). Together they represent over 26,000 corn farmers who last crop year produced 364 million bushels of grain corn (valued at roughly $CAN 1.4 billion).
